Conventions	A reader would have a hard time finding errors in this comment. It's ready to submit/publish. I should know – I edited it myself. ▪ I used conventions correctly to help make the meaning clear. ▪ I checked the spelling, punctuation, grammar, and capitalization. They are all correct. ▪ I read it silently to myself and aloud, too. I corrected every mistake I saw or heard.	The reader may notice 1 or 2 errors. I need to go over this again and look closely for errors! ▪ I did a lot of things right, but I also made 1 or 2 errors. The reader might slow down once or twice because of the errors. ▪ I checked my spelling, punctuation, grammar, and capitalization. I think they are good. I may have missed a 1 or 2 things, though. ▪ I did read it carefully once. I guess I should read it again. I might hear mistakes that my eye missed.	*The reader may notice some errors. The reader might slow down once or twice because of the errors. ▪ I checked my spelling, punctuation, grammar, and capitalization. I think they are pretty good. I may have missed a few things, though. ▪ I did read it quickly. I guess I should read it again. I might hear mistakes that my eye missed.	I made so many mistakes that a reader would have a hard time reading this. ▪ This paper is so full of errors that it's hard to spot the things I did right. ▪ I forgot to check a lot of my spelling, punctuation, grammar, and capitalization. I did not really edit this at all. ▪ I did not read this over to myself. I guess I should. It needs work.
